October 14-17 | Portland, Oregon

2024 Call for Works in Progress Posters

Deadline: March 25, 2024

Notification of acceptance: Week of May 13, 2024

Conference attendees at any stage of their career are invited to share current research and research-in-progress through posters presented at the Works in Progress Showcase.

A poster for the works-in-progress showcase should explain the process of your research project or agenda. All approaches are welcomed, including any mix of qualitative, quantitative, mixed-methods, action, participatory, evaluation, design, development, or other methods. You may wish to highlight the particularly difficult, complex, or otherwise thorny aspects of your work.

During the poster session, participants will have the invaluable opportunity to receive constructive feedback in an informal and collegial setting. This platform serves as an excellent forum for obtaining insights that can significantly enhance ongoing research endeavors. Additionally, the event may foster the identification of potential collaborators, paving the way for meaningful partnerships that can contribute to the collaborative development of innovative educational initiatives.

The posters for the Works in Progress Showcase are neither refereed nor judged. Space is limited, however, and acceptance will be based on space availability with priority given to posters that align with the conference theme, “The Ethics and Evolution of Truth and Information”.

All conference attendees are welcome to submit posters of their work in progress. Doctoral students may not submit the same research presented in the doctoral student research competition.

Submission Requirements and Instructions: All submissions must be entered via the ALISE 2024 submission system, EasyChair.
