ORGANIZATION OVERVIEW

The Association for Library and Information Science Education (ALISE) is the global leader in education for the information professions. ALISE promotes innovative, high-quality education for the information professions internationally through engagement, advocacy and research.

ALISE is a non-profit organization that serves as the intellectual home of faculty, staff, and students in library and information science, and allied disciplines.

ABOUT THE 2025 ALISE CONFERENCE

The ALISE 2025 Annual Conference will be held October 6-8, 2025 in Kansas City, MO.

ALISE 2025 conference theme: Decolonising Pedagogies: Agency, Identity, Practices

This theme infers a profound respect for how we, in LIS education, engage with agency, identity, and practices in our pedagogy. The theme invokes a critical inquiry into our pedagogy as a holistic and authentic expression of each of us as diverse, complex, and divine human beings who research, teach, and practice library and information science. By honoring our best selves, we share that self with our students and community members to inspire them to walk with empathy and care of the human condition as an intricate labyrinth of interdependent identities and heritages essential for knowledge sharing, professional success, and personal happiness. Click here to read more about this year's conference theme.

CELEBRATING 125 YEARS OF ALISE

We are celebrating 125 years of our collective as a LIS association. ALISE, as we know it today, was founded 110 years ago in 1915 as the Association of American Library Schools. In 1900, LIS educators made the first declaration to organize library school educators (Sullivan, 1986). We are going to incorporate ways to celebrate this milestone.
