

JELIS Translation/Reprint Guidelines:

Any request to translate or reprint an article published in JELIS will be decided by the editor(s) (as representatives of ALISE, the copyright holder) in consultation with the author(s).

Procedure: Upon receiving a request to translate or reprint an article, the editor(s) will contact the author(s) for permission. In the case that the author(s) agree to grant permission, the editor(s) will approve the request and notify the JELIS Editorial Board and the chair of the ALISE Publications Committee. In the case that the author(s) do(es) not agree(s) to grant permission, the editor(s) will notify the requestor of the decision. In any case where the editor(s) feel that further discussion or advice is needed prior to approving/denying a request, the JELIS Editorial Board will be consulted first. If further advice is needed, the editor(s) will notify the chair of the Publications Committee.

Translation and Reprint Guidelines approved April 2011 by the ALISE Board of Directors