

ALISE 2005 ANNUAL CONFERENCE

JANUARY 11-14, 2005

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS

CONFERENCE PROGRAM

ALISE 1915-2005

ALISE: Boundary Crossings 2005 Boston, MA

Message from ALISE President Louise Robbins

Welcome to the 2005 Annual ALISE Conference, taking place at the beginning of our 90th year! Ninety years ago, library educators were trying to figure out how to prepare librarians for a new profession in the 20th century. Now we are again trying to determine how to prepare librarians for the 21st century. We need to figure out not only what librarians and their offspring and cousins are, but also prepare them—and ourselves—for a world inextricably bound by the very information and communication technologies that are the tools of our profession.

The theme of this conference—Boundary Crossings: LIS Education in a Global Context—represents this new world. Rather than trying to define boundaries, we are pushing against or crossing them to work together across both geographic and conceptual space. The boundaries we bridge include national borders, disciplinary arenas, the teaching-practice divide, and many more. We are the original interdisciplinary discipline, many years ahead of the recent recognition that solutions to modern problems come bundled not in disciplinary wrappings, but require multiple perspectives. We have a long-standing relationship with practice, which may mean family arguments but always means working toward mutual ends. We are leaders in crossing physical boundaries of time and space to educate aspiring practitioners through distance technologies. For many years, but more intensely today, we have forged strong research, teaching, and outreach relationships with colleagues around the globe.

I welcome you and encourage you to take advantage here of opportunities to cross boundaries of your own—to form new relationships, listen to new ideas, and journey, at least vicariously, into new spaces. Happy Conference!

A Dozen Reasons to Attend ALISE 2005

1. Celebrate the 90th birthday of ALISE
2. Learn from your colleagues presenting papers and panels
3. Interview job seekers or look for a position yourself
4. Renew old friendships and develop new ones
5. Meet colleagues from across the world
6. Hear an exciting keynote speaker, William Mitchell, from MIT
7. Enjoy the exciting cultural atmosphere of Boston
8. Get to know the LIS doctoral students—our future faculty members and colleagues
9. Visit the first-time ever faculty poster session and the ever-popular doctoral poster session
10. Engage in a dialogue with practice in three exciting plenary sessions
11. Network, network, network
12. Participate in shaping the future of LIS education and ALISE

Message from the Conference Program Planning Committee

The members of ALISE's Program Planning Committee welcome you to the 2005 Conference. This year's conference will be a special one, celebrating the 90th anniversary of ALISE. Our conference topic, Boundary Crossings: LIS Education in a Global Context, reflects the changing world of 21st century library and information science (LIS) education where faculty, students, and practitioners are linked in a global community of teaching, learning, research, and practice.

We were pleased that the conference topic was of interest to so many of our colleagues. Many individuals and groups submitted paper or panel proposals; unfortunately, due to the time constraints of the conference schedule, we were able to accept only some of the submissions, even though the proposals were of extremely high quality. The number of proposals received is a strong indication of the vitality of the association; we would like to thank everyone who submitted a proposal.

We firmly believe that every member of ALISE, every educator in an LIS program, and everyone interested in the future of LIS education, will find many opportunities to learn from, and to share with, colleagues during the conference. We hope your time here in Boston will be exciting and that you will leave with ideas and insights that will influence your thinking and actions in the years ahead.

Explore Boston

Boston is home to the Boston Cream Pie, Boston Terriers, the Celtics, the Red Sox, the Patriots, the Bruins, and American chop suey. The most populous city in New England, Boston is steeped in American revolutionary history.

Boston Common: America's first public garden whose central lagoon on which the famous Swan Boats cruise is spanned by the world's smallest suspension bridge. Monuments include the first statue of George Washington on horseback; one of Edward Everett Hale, author of "The Man Without a Country"; and of course, Jack, Kack, Lack, Mack, Nack, Ouack, Pack and Quack of the famous children's book "Make Way for Ducklings," which is set in the Public Garden. nanosft.com/freedom/common/bgent1.shtml

Freedom Trail: A 2.5 mile walking tour of 16 historic sites from the colonial and revolutionary eras. A red brick trail on the streets and sidewalks connects each of the sites and begins at the Boston Common Visitor Information Center. The Trail takes you through the downtown financial/shopping district to Faneuil Hall, through the North End and finally into Charlestown. www.thefreedomtrail.org

Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum: The Gardner Museum is a stunning, Venetian style palazzo with interior garden courtyard. The uniquely arranged galleries house renowned permanent collections, changing historical and contemporary exhibitions, concerts and more. www.gardnermuseum.org

JFK Library: The John F. Kennedy Library is the nation's official memorial to President Kennedy. The Museum at the Kennedy Library takes you inside the American political process with a new exhibit, Campaign! The exhibit is on display until January 20, 2005. The Museum has also secured a rare public display of Jamie Wyeth's oil painting "Man From Boston." www.jfklibrary.org

Legal Sea Foods: Waterfront dining is just steps away from the famous Quincy Market and New England Aquarium. www.legalseafoods.com

Museum of Fine Arts: Come to the MFA and see masterpieces from around the world and across the ages. At every turn, you'll find breathtaking works of art, from masters of American painting to the icons of Impressionism, from exquisite Asian scrolls to ancient Egyptian mummies. There are thousands of reasons to visit. www.mfa.org

Museum of Science: A world-renowned educational institution with over 600 interactive participatory exhibits featuring live animal and physical science demonstrations, courses, traveling exhibits, a computer center, the Mugar Omni Theater and Charles Hayden Planetarium. www.mos.org

Union Oyster House: America's oldest restaurant and a national historic landmark, the restaurant specializes in hearty portions of Yankee-style seafood, fresh New England lobster and grilled meats. www.unionoysterhouse.com

U.S.S. Constitution Museum: Experience one of America's great national treasures – Old Ironsides. The museum is a recipient of the IMLS 2003 National Museum Service Award. www.usconstitutionmuseum.org

Lunch discussion for Assistant Deans [LOCATION: Atrium]

Assistant/Associate Deans & Directors SIG

Organizer: Denise Davis, Simmons College

If you are attending ALISE let's meet and attempt to resurrect this SIG! Those of us in these positions need to meet, for there is much we can learn from one another. Since this SIG has not formally convened for some time, this "call for gathering" is a first step to bring us together in situ. Introductions and descriptions of the variety of responsibilities we have in our respective programs will get us started. Where we go is up to us! SIG co-chairs Denise Davis and Em Claire Knowles, Simmons College GSLIS, will lead the conversation.

Lunch discussion sponsored by Part-Time and Adjunct Faculty SIG [LOCATION: Quincy]

Organizers: Daniel Callison, Indiana University-Indianapolis & Mikel Breitenstein, San Jose State University/Drexel University

What issues and opportunities should this SIG should address, and how? Anyone interested in this area of faculty responsibility and development is invited to attend. Participation is not limited to just those who hold a part-time or adjunct appointment, but should also include educators and administrators who deal with evaluation and quality of adjunct faculty. The discussion menu is wide open, and the food menu is also up to you. Bring your own lunch to this session. SIG co-chairs Mikel Breitenstein and Danny Callison will facilitate discussions.

Program Presentation Seminars: A Discussion with COA

In 2005, the ALA Committee on Accreditation plans to implement an annual training seminar for programs preparing their Program Presentation for the accreditation comprehensive review. During this session, participants will be able to share their perceived content needs for Program Presentation training and provide feedback to COA on the best times and locations for the training.

8:00 a.m. Plenary Session 3 [LOCATION: Ballroom B]

Stepping Up: Shaping the Future of the Field

Organizer: John King, University of Michigan

Organized by ALISE's Deans and Directors group, this session addresses the theme of crisis, an endemic concern in library and information science (LIS) education—the closure of university LIS programs from 1970 to 1990; the rise of the "information schools," and the shortcomings of traditional LIS education given the needs of 21st century librarianship.

Lately, many see a looming crisis in a potential lack of sufficient qualified replacements for librarians retiring in the next decade. In such a perpetual state of crisis, how does LIS education survive at all? John King, Dean, School of Information, University of Michigan, and Chair, ALISE Deans and Directors Group, opens the session arguing three points: (1) the only real crisis in LIS education is a crisis of confidence that is intensified by internecine squabbles among LIS educators and library professionals; (2) the challenges and opportunities facing this small, but important, field make the costs of this squabbling unbearable; and (3) it is time to stop squabbling, go on the offensive, and take the benefits of the field to the world at large. Three commentators, each of whom brings a different institutional point of view to LIS education, will add to the discussion. Punches will not be pulled, although quarter, if asked, will be given, to help us step up to the real challenges of the field.

RESOLUTIONS

Written copies of all resolutions, including resolutions contained in committee reports, must be given to the membership before they are to be presented to that body for action. To permit this, text must be submitted to the Resolutions Committee 24 hours in advance of presentation. A resolution that has fiscal implications must be submitted to the President as well as the Resolutions Committee 24 hours before it is to be voted on so that the Budget Committee can provide information on fiscal implications.

Resolution approved January 13, 1979, limits resolutions to statements on substantive matters relating to library education and the profession of librarianship to be voted on by membership.
